

Modern Slavery Act Statement

Introduction

Around 40 million people worldwide are victims of slavery<sup>i</sup> in its various modern forms.<sup>ii</sup> Consistent with the UN's position, WSP recognises the critical role of the private sector in ending slavery,<sup>iii</sup> and the obligations imposed by the Modern Slavery Act 2015 in the UK and similar legislation elsewhere. WSP is therefore proud to publish details of the steps it has taken in 2021 to ensure that slavery is not taking place in its business and in its supply chains.<sup>iv</sup>

WSP's Structure, Operations and Business Model in the UK

WSP is a global business with more than 40,000 employees in 40+ countries. The worldwide business is ultimately owned by WSP Global Inc., a Canadian company listed on the Toronto Stock Exchange.<sup>v</sup> WSP's principal subsidiary in the UK is WSP UK Limited, which operates both nationally and globally.

WSP develops creative, comprehensive and sustainable engineering solutions for a future where society can thrive. Our work includes engineering iconic buildings, designing sustainable transport systems, developing clean energy, restoring the environment, and much more. WSP's principal clients are public bodies, private companies and financial institutions.

As a highly specialist professional services company, WSP's primary inputs in the UK are its highly-skilled staff, the complex IT equipment and systems that its staff uses, the offices at which its staff work, and various ancillary travel and professional services. The suppliers of the UK businesses are located around the world and are principally other entities controlled by WSP, other professional services companies, IT providers, landlords and a variety of service providers.

Practical Steps Taken Against Slavery

The scope and nature of WSP's business model, activity and footprint means that WSP's business and supply chain is less amenable to slavery-sustaining practices than those many other companies even within the built environment sector. Nonetheless, WSP continues to take practical and proportionate steps to ensure that slavery does not take place in WSP's business and supply chain. Notwithstanding the disruptive effect of COVID-19 across 2021, these steps have consisted inter alia of:

- Proportionate Procedures: WSP in the UK has maintained proportionate procedures to identify and exclude slavery from its business and supply chain. (A number of those procedures are described below). The task of establishing and reviewing the effectiveness of those procedures has been consolidated in Ethics & Compliance function, with due support from the Human Resources, Procurement and Health & Safety functions.
- Top-Level Commitment: the leadership of WSP in the UK has signalled its commitment to excluding slavery by ensuring that the Ethics & Compliance function is adequately resourced and has autonomous reporting lines to the global board of WSP.
- Risk Assessment and Due Diligence: WSP has continued to ensure its approach changes as its business has grown and changed. Slavery risk assessment and management is included in corporate transactions and integrations. Further, prospects and projects in geographic markets that present an elevated level of slavery risk are typically subject to an elevated level of scrutiny and approval at a regional and global level. This typically includes a review by the Ethics and Compliance function and additional slavery risk mitigants (where appropriate).
- Client Engagement: WSP has engaged with major clients (especially in the government sector) to understand their concerns around modern slavery, ensure that WSP complies with their anti-slavery contractual obligations, and to seek industry-wide solutions to industry-wide problems.
- Employee Engagement: more than 98% of employees in the UK have received training on WSP's global Code of Conduct.<sup>vi</sup> WSP maintains a comprehensive HR function to ensure that its staff are employed fairly, freely and lawfully.
- Supply Chain Engagement: at a global level, WSP maintains a Third Party Code of Conduct,<sup>vii</sup> with which suppliers to WSP are expected to comply. In addition, prospective suppliers to WSP are required to disclose the nature and status of their anti-slavery procedures before being onboarded as a supplier by WSP.
- WSP's General Conditions of Purchase: as part of an overarching realignment of its procurement function, WSP is now restructuring its onboarding of suppliers to ensure that inter alia its anti-slavery engagement is proportionate, practical and effective.
- Monitoring and Review: WSP in the UK has monitored and reviewed the effectiveness of its anti-slavery procedures. The Slavery Prevention Policy seeks to ensure that WSP's procedures are practical, proportionate and clear; it was reviewed and updated in December 2021. In addition, WSP has amended its HR, finance and expenses policies to prevent and/or restrict certain activities that bear an elevated risk of slavery.

Modern Slavery Act Statement

- Public Outreach: WSP has published its Modern Slavery Act Statement and its Slavery Prevention Policy<sup>viii</sup> on its website at www.wsp.com.
- Identifying and Responding to Concerns: an independent company operates a Business Conduct Hotline on WSP's behalf. WSP encourages employees, suppliers, clients and the public to report concerns ("blow the whistle") about slavery in WSP's business or its supply chain via the Business Conduct Hotline. The Business Conduct Hotline can be contacted via <https://wsp.ethicspoint.com/>.

Continuing to Improve

WSP anticipates that the practical steps described above will also be taken in 2022. We continue to be informed by the best practice and analysis of our sector, our clients, our suppliers and of anti-slavery practitioners.

WSP welcomes constructive engagement with all stakeholders to increase the effectiveness of its anti-slavery activity. In particular, we expect an increase in engagement with large public authorities in the UK as they start to publish their own slavery and human trafficking statements pursuant to an anticipated amendment to section 54 of the UK's Modern Slavery Act 2015.

More generally, as a UK-based business that operates globally, WSP UK Limited anticipates further engagement with clients, vendors and government agencies in certain international markets that are upgrading and expanding their legislation to combat slavery.
