Matthew Sibul Named WSP USA Southwest Mountain Transportation Lead

Sibul brings nearly three decades of effective leadership experience in the transportation industry, both in the private sector and in public agencies.

SALT LAKE CITY, February 9, 2023 — WSP USA, a leading engineering, environment and professional services consultancy, has hired Matthew Sibul as transportation district business line lead for the firm’s Southwest Mountain district.

In this role, Sibul leads the growth, operations, project delivery and client success for WSP’s transportation business in this five-state district.

“Sibul is a proven and effective leader with decades of professional experience in the transportation industry,” said Shaun Grimm, senior vice president and Southwest Mountain District lead. “He is excellent at managing teams and mentoring young professionals, and I’m very excited for him to bolster our operations in this district.”

Sibul has 29 years of transportation leadership experience both for public agencies and in the private sector. His most recent role was head of sales and business development for an international train manufacturer with U.S. operations based in Salt Lake City, in which he oversaw new sales projects and business development across the U.S. and Canada.

Before that, Sibul had 12 years of experience with the Utah Transit Authority as director of government relations, chief planning officer and a senior program manager. He also has 14 years of additional experience in corporate consulting.

Sibul is a licensed professional engineer and a graduate of the University of Minnesota with a bachelor's degree in civil engineering.

WSP's Southwest Mountain District includes Arizona, Colorado, New Mexico, Utah and Wyoming.
